Duties of Mandarin school

1. Program Clarification

On its website Mandarin school will carefully explain the circumstances and conditions of the Mandarin school Teacher in China Program / Teaching Intern in China Program to the applicant as well as provide important information for download. Should any further questions arise on the applicant's side, Mandarin school will answer those with the same care.

2. Timely Reporting

Mandarin school will timely report back to the applicant the outcome of his or her application. I.e. usually the applicant will receive a notification whether or not his application has been successful after one week, but latest after one month.

3. Auditing and Mediation

Mandarin school ensures the applicant, that all its partner agencies have been personally audited by Mandarin school employees. In the event of a dispute between the applicant and a partner agency Mandarin school will mediate to reach a satisfying outcome for all parties involved.

4. Disclaimer

Mandarin school cannot be held liable for the results of any omissions or mistakes made by the applicant him- or herself and/or its partner institutions.

Duties of the Applicant

1. Honesty

The applicant ensures that during the application and following Teacher in China Program / Teaching Intern in China Program all information from his or her side has been provided truthfully.

2. Timely Notification

Should the applicant wish to withdraw from the program or should the underlying facts of the information provided by the applicant change, he or she must inform Mandarin school Exchange and its partner agency, which is responsible for the applicant, immediately.

3. Feedback

Should any problems arise the applicant must contact his personal advisor as soon as possible. In any case the applicant will have to contact his personal advisor once a month to discuss his or her experiences. If the applicant does not do so, he or she might lose the right of assisting services by the partner agency which is responsible for the applicant, but the applicant will not lose the monetary benefits associated with the Teacher in China Program / Teaching Intern in China Program.

4. Other Duties

Other duties may arise from the conditions of the au pair contract and possible other agreements between the applicant and the partner agency which is responsible for him.

Regulations in the Event of Program Termination

1. Conciliation

Should the applicant wish to terminate the program he or she will have to provide the chance to resolve the underlying problems to Mandarin school and the partner agency which is responsible for the applicant.

2. Benefits

The benefits claimable by the applicant are stated within our program overview on our website www.mandarin-school.cn . However, the stated benefits may deviate from institution to institution.

The final benefits claimable by the applicants from the school and/or partner agency derive from the individual contract between the applicant and the school and/or a representative of the school, e.g. a partner agency of Mandarin school.

3. Further Regulations

Further regulations may derive from the au pair contract and/or other agreements between the applicant and the school and/or partner agency which is responsible for him/her.
